

Hail Columbia happy land!

I am descended from Parents who were partly Indian, African, and English: but rather more of the latter than of the former; but notwithstanding this I have a most friendly feeling towards the despised African and neglected Indian.

The Creek Indians say "Ester hadkey oley wargus chey hol cobits wigus cha": which being interpreted is "I do not like the white man, he stole my land": wigus cha, very angry; and well the Indian may say so, for when I lived in their vicinity, I frequently witnessed how very cruelly they were deprived of their land & property

I feel extremely well pleased and desire to be sincerely grateful to almighty God that he has permitted me to visit this land which has distinguished itself above all others by its efforts to advance the best interests of mankind of all
